

Email Protection Services

Premium-grade email protection

Solving your corporate email challenges

Email messaging is your company's most critical business communications service. Keeping it secure, compliant and highly available can be a surprisingly challenging problem.

To remain competitive, you need to provision your employees quickly, and manage their mailboxes efficiently. But to keep email clean, you need third party anti-virus and anti-spam engines, leading-edge targeted attack protection, data loss prevention, a content filtering solution, and technology to quickly encrypt messages containing personal, confidential, and trade secret information.

Then there's the message archiving system your auditors and counsel demand, and the business continuity features your CIO needs. With all of these requirements, cost and complexity can quickly spiral out of control and distract you from your core business. There's a better way.

SilverSky Email Protection Services

We offer a comprehensive family of email security solutions that provide end-to-end views of both inside and outside threats. SilverSky Email Protection Services (EPS) are fully integrated, easily controlled with a unified and intuitive security management console, and provide organizations with full security and control over inbound and outbound corporate messaging using real-time threat intelligence and our SilverSky detection platform.

EPS can be implemented collectively or with other existing messaging vendors such as Google and Office 365, and seamlessly integrates with any cloud or on-premise email system, including SilverSky's award-winning hosted Exchange service.
